

THE POWER OF THOUGHT LEADERSHIP

Surveys, Research Studies, White Papers, Executive Briefs

Thought Leadership Projects Have Amazing Impact

- Surveys, research studies and white papers are powerful business development tools
- The end product – survey results or white paper – is important. However, the real payoff comes while engaging clients and prospects in the data collection process through live interviews and electronic or mailed surveys
- Thought Leadership projects:
 - Position company as innovative thought leader
 - Serve as basis for high-level discussions with target audience
 - Establish hundreds of new relationships
 - Illustrate access to industry and market leaders
 - Greatly expand the company's market footprint

EXAMPLE: “Will You Be Ready? How the Communications Industry is Surviving While Planning for a Robust Future”

Patty Block led numerous surveys and studies for Spencer Stuart's technology practice. Block secured industry and media alliances – e.g., Telecommunications Industry Association (TIA) – conducted face-to-face and phone interviews, and electronically surveyed TIA members/other targeted executives. This survey/study:

- Enhanced firm visibility
- Established new relationships with dozens of prospects
- Secured senior forum panel and speaking opportunities
- Led to $ millions in new search work

The Process

- Create list of companies and executives you want to work with
- Brainstorm appropriate subject, make the title relevant, newsworthy and compelling – i.e., something that impacts you target audience's business – and they will respond. Why?
 - People like giving their opinion because it makes them feel that their ideas matter, and
 - Executives want to learn what their peers and market leaders are thinking and doing
- Develop a plan for data collection and developing survey results
- Build high-level outline of assumptions, findings and conclusions
- Important: Find appropriate Industry Association or Publication to partner with. This helps:
 - Enhance study cachet
 - Broaden market reach
 - Increase company market visibility
 - Expand your business referral network
 - Secure numerous speaking and panel opportunities
 - Generate qualified leads and new business
- Contact clients and prospects and invite them to participate in survey – these data collection interviews open doors, establish and build relationships, and generate new and add-on work
- Draft survey results and highlight interview quotes. People look first for powerful commentary when reading newspaper stories, magazine articles, annual reports, etc.
- Obtain feedback on draft from colleagues, clients, PR firm, then edit and publish final report

Leveraging Thought Leadership

- Email survey results to prospects before meeting and snail-mail to dormant clients to reestablish contact
- Distribute at networking events, industry forums, conferences and speaking engagements
- Media Relationships and Coverage
 - Use survey results to help get “foot in the door” and establish relationship with premiere business publications and local, regional and national media
 - Excerpt and repurpose content for newspaper articles, business magazines and newsletters.
 - Leverage survey and study results as basis for business journal article or book